By virtue of the State constitutions of 1816 and 1851, and the Acts of the General Assembly thereunder, Indiana University is the State University and is the head of the public school system of the State. The institution was founded by an Act of the State legislature, approved January 20, 1820, establishing "the State Seminary" at Bloomington, and appropriating to its use certain lands granted by Congress to the State for that purpose. Its doors were opened for the admission of students in 1824. The first graduating exercises were held in 1830. The institution was made coeducational in 1867. By Act of January 24, 1828, its name was changed to that of "the Indiana College"; and by Act of February 15, 1838, to "the Indiana University". After the adoption of the present State constitution in 1851, the legislature passed a bill (approved June 17, 1852), enacting that "the institution established by 'an Act to establish a college in the State of Indiana', approved January 28, 1828, is hereby recognized as the University of the State."

On June 24, 1902, the Supreme Court of Indiana, in the case of Fisher vs. Brower, rendered a decision, without a dissenting opinion, that "the Indiana University is an integral part of our free school system"; "that it was the special creation of the constitution"; and that "the University, as well as its endowment, has always been under the supervision of the State."

The text of these acts, together with subsequent acts, in whole or in part, for the government and maintenance of the University, are given in the University catalogs for recent years.

Prefatory Note

The present edition of the Register of Graduates of Indiana University is the sixth which has been published. The first edition was issued in 1897, a second in 1899, a third in 1901, a fourth in 1904, and a fifth in 1911. This edition follows in main the plan of the edition of 1911. It aims to present in Part I a list of the alumni arranged by years of graduation; in Part II, a list of the graduates by localities; and in Part III, an alphabetical list of the alumni. Attention should also be called to the appendixes including tables showing attendance and degrees by years, a summary of the same, a table showing the distribution of graduates by occupations, a list of the names and the locations of the universities and colleges which have conferred degrees upon graduates of Indiana University, and a list of persons concerning whom information is desired.

In the Addenda are such changes as have been received too late to be included in other parts of the book. No attempt, however, has been made to list or give new addresses of graduates in military service.

Part I is arranged chronologically by years of graduation, and subsections are made for the different degrees conferred. The graduates are arranged alphabetically under each degree. The names of women married after graduation are listed under both the maiden name and the married name. The information, however, is given under the maiden name, and a cross-reference to this is given under the married name. There is one exception. Where a woman was married before receiving her degree, her married name is listed, the middle name in parenthesis indicating her maiden name. The following information is given after the names of graduates: Subsequent degrees (with dates) conferred by Indiana University; degrees (with dates), so far as obtainable, received from other institutions; occupation; address. Where the home or permanent address differs from the temporary address both are given. To the names of persons known to be deceased an asterisk (*) is prefixed, and the date of death and place of burial are added. Beginning with the year 1887 the major subject is indicated by the abbreviation in italics following the name. The degrees received from other institutions and the address and occupation of a graduate are given but once under the year of the first degree conferred. In the case of the recipient of subsequent degrees, the names are listed under the proper years and reference is made to the year of the first degree conferred. Prior to 1889 the degrees Bachelor of Arts (A.B.), Bachelor of Science (B.S.), Bachelor of Letters (B.L.), and Bachelor of Philosophy (Ph.B.), were given; since 1889 the degree Bachelor of Arts (A.B.) and the degree Bachelor of Science (B.S.) have been the only degrees conferred on students completing the undergraduate course in the College of Liberal Arts. The degree Bachelor of Laws (LL.B.) was not conferred during the years 1878-1889, owing to the suspension of the School of Law. The letters A.M., without year attached, mean that the degree Master of Arts was given "in course" (i.e. without further University work) three years after receipt of the degree Bachelor of Arts; where the year is given the degree was conferred upon examination for work done. The degree "in course" ceased to be conferred in 1876. No subsections are made for graduates receiving this degree. Where a second degree is given with no indication of the institution conferring it, Indiana University is to be understood.

Part II has been divided into three main groups. The first is a list of the graduates residing in Indiana in which the names are arranged by counties, the postoffices being placed alphabetically under each county. Preceding the Indiana group, a finding list has been inserted showing the county in which a particular postoffice is located. The second group contains the names of graduates living in other States, the postoffices being arranged in alphabetical order under each State. The third group contains the names of graduates living in other countries, the postoffices being arranged as in the second group. After the name of each graduate are added the first degree (with date) conferred by Indiana University, and, if in large cities, the street address of the recipient. The names have been arranged in alphabetical order under each postoffice. In the case of married women the maiden name alone is considered in this alphabetical arrangement; the married name, however, is given in parenthesis. Persons endeavoring to locate alumni in particular localities should remember to consult the Addenda as well as the locality list.

Part III, which is an alphabetical list of the alumni, serves as an index to the Register. Following the name of each graduate the degrees (with dates) received from Indiana University are given. By referring to Part I under the year of the first degree conferred, additional information concerning a particular graduate may be found. In the case of women married since graduation, entry has been made under both the maiden name and the married name. As in Part I, deceased graduates are indicated by an asterisk (*).

In most cases the information contained in this edition has been obtained directly from the graduates concerned. Blanks calling for the desired information have been mailed to every graduate whose address could be ascertained. Notwithstanding the care taken to make this record more complete than its predecessors, some data are still lacking. Special attention is called to the list of graduates concerning whom information is desired. Imperfections will doubtless be detected, and every graduate, therefore, is urged to communicate to the Alumni Secretary any information which will serve to improve future editions. Each graduate is especially requested to notify the Alumni Secretary of any change in his own address and to add any facts within his knowledge which this edition does not contain in regard to other graduates.
